This first publication from the SLICE group (Standard Language Ideology in Contemporary Europe) and in its book series has only been possible as a result of much interest and support – which we wish to acknowledge here.

The initiative towards the SLICE programme was taken at the LANCHART centre (dgcss.hum.ku.dk). The idea was discussed with members of LANCHART's International Council at the centre's annual meeting with the council in 2008, involving Peter Auer, Nikolas Coupland, Paul Kerswill, Dennis R. Preston, Mats Thelander, and Helge Sandøy – as well as Peter Garrett as a specially invited 'sparring partner'. Subsequently, a proposal for a series of Exploratory Workshops was worked out at LANCHART by Frans Gregersen, Tore Kristiansen, Shaun Nolan, and Jacob Thøgersen.

This volume results from two Exploratory Workshops which were held in Copenhagen, Denmark in February and August of 2009. These workshops, which were the beginnings of SLICE, were financed by the Nordic Research Foundation for the Human and Social Sciences, NOS-HS. They took place at Schæffergården, with financial support also from the Foundation for Danish-Norwegian Cooperation. We thank both foundations for their support.

The principal applicant for the Exploratory Workshops was Tore Kristiansen (Copenhagen), and he thanks his co-applicants Kristján Árnason (Reykjavík), Frans Gregersen (Copenhagen), Pirkko Nuolijärvi (Helsinki), Helge Sandøy (Bergen), Mats Thelander (Uppsala), and Jan-Ola Östman (Helsingfors).
